Hearing the Voice of the Holy Spirit

On the Vigil of Pentecost one of the Readings from the Book of Genesis is the story of the Tower of Babel where God punished those who built the tower because of their pride by dividing their one language into many. In contrast to the story of Babel is the historic event of Pentecost where people from all over the world gathered in one place and heard the Gospel- each in their own language.

God is calling each of us to become His witness and fill the earth with His praises. He wants to empower us to speak to the people in our family, our parish, our neighborhood about His marvels.

Jesus has accomplished His mission but His work of redemption continues through the power of the Holy Spirit. The Christian community is given the confidence to grow and share testimony with all peoples about the powerful deeds of God. How do we participate in and share this new creation with others?

The SVDP Pantry is in need of the following:

CANNED SOUPS, canned vegetables, peanut butter and Jelly, meal in a can, baked beans, shelf-stable milk, and tea bags.

If you would like to make a monetary donation please make checks payable to:

SOCIETY OF ST. VINCENT de PAUL

PENTECOST SUNDAY

Living the Good News Today

"May the Lord be glad in His works!"

On this weekend of the Church's celebration of Pentecost (born of the Holy Spirit), our parish is commencing a special parish mission that will continue beyond the weekend's Masses into three consecutive weekdays of spiritual reflection with Passionist Brother Michael Moran:

On the Road: Walking through the Gospels & through Life
Our inmost being can be shaped and renewed by choices we make in committing our time to activities.

As part of both military and corporate leadership training, I was given some useful information regarding time-management decisions (both work and personal). The two keywords to keep in mind are "important" and "urgent." Two simple examples:

- (Urgent) My house is on fire and I must take action;
- (Important) I'd like to purchase my own home someday, so I need to save a nest egg.

There is no doubt that there will be many other decisions over the years that play out for that home or the savings. However, if we do not ever make things important, we may live in a chronic state of urgency.

Acquiring good time management skills means that we commit ourselves to discriminate between what is important and urgent. When we allow ourselves to become too busy, many things become urgent to us that have no importance in our lives. This is a waste of our time. It can lead to stress and anxiety. This is especially true in our spiritual lives, when our daily living can be so committed that it leaves little or no time for any "retreat" into God's sacred space.

Over the past eleven years, I have made seven mission trips to the Missionaries of the Poor (MOP) in Kingston, Jamaica. In addition to their vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience, the MOP brothers take a vow of service to Christ in the poor. Each day as we reported for our assignments with the brothers, we began the day with prayer. The brothers held prayer as "important" to the focus of each day.

After we fed the residents the midday meal, a brother would ring the bell, calling us to Midday Prayer in the chapel. Recognizing the importance of that bell, many of the residents, with simple smiles, lovingly escorted us to the steps leading to the chapel.

As the minutes of the day unfolded, there would be ample opportunities for the "urgent" to emerge: residents having seizures; fights breaking out among residents; a need for major plumbing maintenance; etc. At lunch one day, I mentioned to one of the young brothers that there was such a grace and energy that came to the community from their prayer life and it's intertwined service to Christ. I will never forget his delighted smile when I shared that affirmation with him.

To an outsider or first-time visitor, the MOP ministry to the poorest of the poor (like St. Teresa of Calcutta's order) might seem too repetitive, daunting, and endless. For any community (even non-religious) that makes God the Center of their lives, though, the hope expressed in the responsorial psalm resonates, energizes, and transforms it:

"May the Lord be glad in His works!"

Like the early Church in the Acts of the Apostles, encountering Christ is important. The community was very deliberate about what was important to a vibrant faith life and how they lived as God's family.

Brother Michael sent our parish an outline with his themes for the three mission talks—a journey with Jesus that realigns our thinking and draws our hearts into that unity that St. Paul described to the Corinthians. The mission's themes celebrate the Good News of Jesus Christ—so timely for our world:

- Disconnecting from our quick-paced, technologically driven world deliberately and hearing the voice of God telling us we are the beloved when we are present with Jesus;
- Learning from Jesus' Cross that God loves us just the way we are, and it is this love that has the power to change us, to heal us if we are open and take the time for it to happen;
- Refashioning our memory of Jesus to give us courage, strength, and hearts burning within us.

Sometimes, we just need to splurge on ourselves spiritually. We frequently hear people talking about other pampering activities: getting a pedicure; going for a massage or to a spa; going away for a long weekend to a favorite place. The parish mission provides us an opportunity for getting away from what competes to waste our time and to use that time to be renewed by the Holy Spirit in God's loving Presence. This choice does not involve traveling very far or spending money. Essentially, though, it is about saying that our relationship with God is important enough to set aside other choices and to surrender to God's grace. Perhaps it even becomes sweeter to invite a friend or two to share this time and talk about it afterwards! ☺

What do our calendars look like this week? Do any of our activities support what is important in our spiritual lives? Is it possible to retreat for a few hours this week and to encounter Christ at the mission? Do we look forward to hearing Jesus tell us these special words, reassuring words?

"Peace be with you."
